HIGH SCHOOL REUNION

The Peabody High School Class of 1963 celebrated their 50th reunion September 27-29, 2013. On Friday, a meet and greet fish fry/cook-out was held at the home of classmate John Pryor, with music by DJ Rob Anderson. On Saturday, a semi-formal dinner dance was held at the Hilton Garden Inn. Music was provided by Albert Vincent, photographs by William Porter and video by Janice Mann.

Program events included a memorial for deceased class members and recognition of special guests, which included teachers: Mrs. Marie Maniego-Scott and Ms. Geraldine Maclin; Delegate Rosalyn Dance and Actor Afemo Omilami.

On Sunday, class members worshipped at the Resurrection Christian Life Center, with Pastors Alice Bland Gray and Gary Gray. Immediately following service, they enjoyed lunch at VSU Gateway Dining Facilities. This was truly a blessed weekend with their classmates, who came from California, Wisconsin, Texas, Tennessee, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Maryland and various areas in Virginia.

Celebrated in February.... Black History Month

Black History Month, also known as African-American History Month, is an annual celebration of achievements by Black Americans, and a time to recognize the central role of African-Americans in U.S. history. Its original purpose was to recall and celebrate people and events in the history of African diaspora.

Black History Month originally was much more modest in scope and time. It was, in fact, called "Negro History Week," beginning in February 1926. It was created by historian Carter G. Woodson and the Chicago-based Association for the Study of Negro Life and History (now called the Association for the Study of African-American Life and History). Woodson declared that the second week of February would forever be declared as Negro History Week. Why the second week?

Because that week contained the birthdays of both Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglass, two men who greatly influenced the Black American population.

The principle point of Negro History Week was to encourage a universal and coordinated teaching of the history of Black Americans in this nation's public schools. In 1976, as part of the U.S. Bicentennial Celebration, the expansion of Negro History Week to Black History Month was officially recognized by the U.S. government. It was the late President Gerald R. Ford who strongly encouraged all Americans to "seize the opportunity to honor the too-often neglected accomplishments of Black Americans in every area of endeavor throughout our history."

Profound Quotes

"Change will not come if we wait for some other person or some other time. We are the ones we've been waiting for. We are the change that we seek."

- President Barack Obama

"Never underestimate the power of dreams and the influence of the human spirit. We are all the same in this nation. The potential for greatness lives within each of us."

-Wilma Rudolph

"Just don't give up what you're trying to do. Where there is love and inspiration, I don't think you can go wrong."

- Ella Fitzgerald

"For African to me...is more than a glamorous fact. It is a historical truth. No man can know where he is going unless he knows exactly where he has been and exactly how he arrived at his present place."

- Maya Angelou

Black History Month – We Salute LTC Howard L. Baugh Original Tuskegee Airman

Lieutenant Colonel (LTC) Howard L. Baugh, USAF (Ret.) was born in Petersburg, VA on January 20, 1920 and attended public schools in Petersburg and Brooklyn. As a young man, Baugh always had a fascination with flying. After the Army Air Corps began accepting African Americans in 1941, Baugh joined the program after graduating from Virginia State College (University). He entered the Army Air Corps as an Aviation Cadet in March 1942. He completed pilot training at the famed Tuskegee Army Airfield in November 1942 and was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant. Out of 20 cadets, he was one of four to become pilots. He was also one of the first African Americans to be trained as World War II military pilots in the U.S. Army Air Force Corps. The Tuskegee Airmen never lost a plane to enemy fighters—a record no other fighter unit achieved. In all, the Tuskegee program sent 450 Black pilots into combat.

In July 1943, LTC Baugh was assigned to the 99th Fighter Squadron in Sicily. Flying from Sicily, Italy, he flew 135 combat missions in P-40s and P-51s. In January 1944, he and his wingman were credited with shooting down a German FW-190 fighter bomber over the Anzio beachhead. For his outstanding military service, LTC Baugh was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, the Air Force Commendation Medal, the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award and other theater and campaign medals.

During 25 years of active duty, he amassed almost 6,000 pilot hours, including 250 combat hours. Throughout his military career, LTC Baugh flew more than 15 different types of military aircraft to include 1,100 hours in four types of jet airplanes. After his retirement from the Air Force in 1967, he was employed by Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester, NY. After retiring from Eastman Kodak in 1984, then LTC Baugh and his wife moved back to Petersburg.

In June 2004, the French Government flew LTC Baugh to Paris, France and presented him with that country's highest and most prestigious military award, the French Legion of Honor. In a March 2007 ceremony at the U.S. Capitol Rotunda in Washington, D.C. honoring the legendary Tuskegee Airman, LTC Baugh was awarded the Congressional Gold Medal, the highest honor the U.S. Congress can bestow on a civilian.

At the age of 88, LTC Howard Lee Baugh passed away on August 23, 2008. He was preceded in death by his wife, Constance Layne Baugh and his older brother, William Baugh. He is survived by his three sons, two daughters-in-law, four grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, two sisters and one brother, plus many nieces, nephews and cousins.

Celebrated in March

Women's History Month is an annual declared month that highlights the contributions of women to events in history and society. It is celebrated in March, corresponding with International Women's Day on March 8th. In February 1980,

President Jimmy Carter issued a presidential proclamation declaring the week of March 8th as National Women's History Week. He asked Americans to recognize this heritage with appropriate activities during March 2-8, 1980. Throughout the next several years, the popularity of National Women's History Week grew and in 1987, after being petitioned by the National Women's History Project, Congress designated the month of March 1987 as Women's History Month.

This year, the National Women's History Project has chosen for the 2014 theme: Women of Courage, Character and Commitment. They will recognize twelve extraordinary, unrecognized women from different cultural and ethnic backgrounds. The event will be held March 27, 2014 at the Willard Hotel, Washington, D.C.

UP-COMING EVENT

To recognize Ordinary Women Doing Extraordinary Things in the City of Petersburg and also in celebration of Women's History Month, the Second Annual Celebration Tea will be held on Saturday, March 29th. Ordinary Women Doing Extraordinary Things was a vision of Councilwoman Treska Wilson-Smith. Because there are so many powerful women who are doing great things in and for Petersburg, Wilson-Smith said she felt that their contributions should be recognized. Therefore, she organized a committee with four other women and together they planned the first event. At that occasion, five women were honored for their stellar contributions and continuous community involvement.

Don't miss the Second Annual Celebration Tea on the 29th from 9:00-12:00 noon at the Tabernacle Community Life Center when five Petersburg residents will be honored and recognized as "Extraordinary Women." Tickets for this event are available for $5.00 each and can be obtained by calling 804-862-1192. Requests for tickets must be received by March 15th.

PEABODIAN IN THE SPOTLIGHT – Civil Rights Activist Advocate for Human Dignity

Carl J. Winfield (class of 1968) is best known for the march he organized from Petersburg to Washington with the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King—a march that never happened. According to Winfield, Dr. King was supposed to arrive in Suffolk, meeting him in Petersburg and the march would proceed to Washington. However, plans changed—Dr. King went to Memphis to resolve a strike of the Sanitation Workers; there he was assassinated, April 4, 1968.

Carl is planning another walk on March 7th, travelling from Petersburg to Memphis, Tennessee. This walk, according to Winfield, is in honor of the Memphis Sanitation Strike. He will then travel from Birmingham to Montgomery, Alabama before coming back home. In his estimation, the trip will be completed by the first of April. Winfield said this march is in honor of the late Nelson Mandela, who passed away December 5, 2013. Carl plans to start walking from Good Shepherd Baptist Church, S. Crater Road.

Just recently, Winfield walked from Suffolk to Petersburg, which took 13.5 hours; and then from Petersburg to Richmond International Airport. His walk from Suffolk to Petersburg was to commemorate the 2013 Poor People's Campaign, which was originally proposed by Dr. King in 1967. Also, in the early morning hours of January 11th (a little over a week before the inauguration of President Barack Obama), Carl tied on his comfortable hiking boots, put on his warm winter coat and began marching north from Petersburg. About two and a half days, and 131 miles, later he arrived in Washington.

Winfield is also known for his affiliation and support of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), which played a large role in the Civil Rights Movement.

Memorials for Our Loved Ones – Gone But Not Forgotten

I feel a warmth around me like your presence is so near.
 And, I close my eyes to visualize your face when you were here.
 I endure the times we spent together and they are locked inside my heart,
 For as long as I have those memories, we will never be apart.
 Even though we cannot speak anymore, my voice is always there
 Because every night before I sleep, I have you in my prayer.
